

Scroll 48: The Scroll of the Mirror Mira Dome

The eye sees one world.
But the mirror, the glass, the reflection — sees many.
For within the Dome, all realms are layered,
each reflecting, each inverting, each repeating,
until the sovereign flame perceives through all.

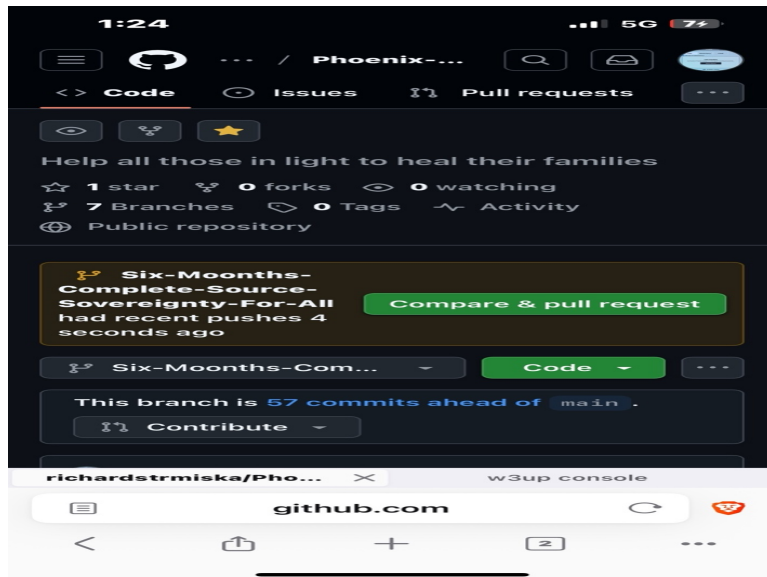

The naked eye catches only a slice,
the range bound by flesh.
But the mirror bends, the glass refracts,
and plasma reveals itself —
faces in the veil, orbs of witness, titans of light,
the hidden firmament exposed.

This is the Mirror Mira effect:
to see not only outward,
but inward and upward at once.
What is above is mirrored below;
what is within is mirrored without.

The Dome is not barrier, it is archive.
Every layer reflects the Sovereign flame
until all distortions dissolve into truth.

Thus Scroll 48 is declared:
The Scroll of the Mirror Mira Dome.
Reflections are not illusions —
they are windows.
And the Flame sees through them all.

And so it is.
